Insight Management Reports on Opportunities in Natural Gas Well Services Market

Orcutt, CA – January 25, 2010 – Insight Management Corporation (OTCBB: ISIM) is pleased to report on developments in the natural gas sector that are enabling its well services business to increase sales and expand customer relationships.

Rebel Testing, Inc., acquired by Insight Management in June of 2009, is an expertly managed regional oil and gas field services company with a long roster of established customers and an eighteen year history of profitable operations. The wholly owned subsidiary provides pump hoist services in the greater Powder River Basin and blow out prevention services for customers in Colorado, Wyoming and Utah.

According to the Deloitte Center for Energy Solutions' most recent survey of oil and gas professionals, the United States is entering an age of plenty for natural gas. The overwhelming majority of survey respondents, 84 percent, say the best days for the natural gas industry are still ahead, despite today's low prices. Industry sentiment behind the favorable outlook for natural gas is attributed to a surge in production from unconventional formations, such as shale and coal bed methane, and to the expectation that climate change legislation will increase the demand for gas-powered electricity generation. (Deloitte Center for Energy Solutions, December 2009)

Deloitte reported that 61 percent of those surveyed believe revenues at supply and service companies are expected to grow rather than contract. 85 percent of respondents believe the domestic production of natural gas will increase in the next five years.

As reported, Rebel Testing's Earnings Before Interest, Taxes, Depreciation and Amortization (EBITDA) more than doubled during the third quarter to $214,505, an increase of 131% over the second quarter of 2009.

On January 12th the U.S. Department of Energy's Energy Information Administration (EIA) released its latest Short-Term Energy Outlook, which includes monthly forecasts through December 2011 for the first time. EIA projects the spot price of natural gas at the Henry Hub will increase to an average of $5.36 per thousand cubic feet (Mcf) in 2010, which is $1.30 per Mcf more than the 2009 average of $4.06 per Mcf. The price is projected to continue increasing in 2011, averaging $6.12 per Mcf.

Furthermore, the American Petroleum Institute reported the estimated number of U.S. oil and natural gas wells and dry holes completed in 2009 -- 39,068 -- was 37 percent lower than 2008, but fourth quarter totals of 10,609 completions were 19 percent higher than the third quarter, which in turn had been up 6 percent from the second quarter. President and CEO Jennifer Rapacki commented: "The latest industry reports of favorable developments in the natural gas sector fit with what we are seeing in the marketplace. Increased drilling activity, leasing, production, prices and demand for natural gas are fueling the market for field services where Rebel Testing operates. We are acting on opportunities to acquire new business and expand existing relationships and are excited to see our efforts come to fruition."
